He Is Elected President by Vote of 53 to 35-Charles F. Vogel His Opponent.

William A. Giraldin yesterday defeated Charles F. Vogel by a vote of 51 to 35 for president of the Real Estate Exchange. There were nineteen candidates for directors, and the twelve elected were: James P. Riake, J. Hamilton Parish, Henry L. Haydel, R. F. Kilgen, C. F. A. Mueller, Gerald B. O'Reilly, Frank S. Parker, Robert Rutledge, Albert T. Terry, Joseph P. Whyte, Edward Wyman and Frederick G.

A fusillade of torpedoes smashed against the tile floor of the exchange was the signal for the close of the election booth at 3 o'clock, and the voters waited until 4.2) to hear the returns.

At reson when the polls opened a long line of realty dealers congregated in front of the directors' room, access the door of which a table was placed, bearing upon it the ballot box with the "heodoo" No. 13.

John Peck had the honor of easting the first vote, but he scorned the charus of questions relating to his vote; the candidates received no satisfaction.

Candidates Wore Each Other's Badges Charles F. Vogel and William Giraldin, the two candidates for the presidency, stood in the middle of the rotunda, which was recently freecoed in green and white for the occasion. Each wore the others ladge, Mr. Vogel's name being printed in black letters, and Mr. Giraldin's in green, upon white satin ribbons. Following this cue every member wore the ribbons of both candidates.

R. F. Kilken and C. C. Cross for Mr.

cise every member were the ribbons of both candidates.

R. F. Kliken and C. C. Crone for Mr. Vogel, and William Lightholder and Mullanphy Cates, for Mr. Giraidin, were dubted the "Mark Hannas." They were dubted the "Mark Hannas." They were the "steering committees" and had a lot of company Albert T. Terry, a candidate for director, came in for the first joke. He was accused of lingering near the lunch counter and monopolizing that adjunct in the game of vote catching.

Joseph Dormitzer, one of the best-known men or. The street," came early and the dignified way in which he approached the ballot box without delaning to listen to the congregation of "spielers" thereabouts disconcerted them for a moment. Frederick G. Zeibig, who has been reading a vacation at Hot Spring, came in later. He was looking hale and hearty and received an availon from these who had him stated for a directorship.

North Side Contingency Divided.

North Side Contingency Divided.

Had Charles C. Crone and J. H. Gundlach, both of North St. Louis, pooled issues, one of them would have been elected, and regret was expressed on the exchange floor that some combine was not formed to bermit a representative of the North Side to have a place in the executive council. Both candidates are nogular.

The tellers of the election were Frederick Murphy of M. J. Murphy & Son, and Coburn J. Farrar of Scott & Farrar. They sat behind a desk which before the day was over, looked like a minature fortress, so heavily was it londed with cigars. Candidates considered it a part of the programme to bestow upon the tellers all the weeds they had doubts about.

Frank S. Parker was among the early comers, but quickly left, with the excuse that he had a big deal on which would prevent him from taking care of his candidacy.

All of the trust companies that run a real estate department had representatives on the floor. David P. Leaby fat and urbane.

All of the trust companies that run a real estate department had representatives on the floor. David P. Leshy, fat and urhane, voted for the Lincoln Trust, and C. Hart Turner took care of the Commonwealth's interests, while Eugene Beno'st saw to it that the Mississippi Valley was not forgotten. L. E. Anderson and C. H. McMillan received a warm welcome as the envoys extraordinary of the Mercantile Trust Company.

Partners Each Had Choice.

Partners Each Had Choice.

An amusing incident at the polis was the argument between the partners of the firm of Moffett & Franciscus. Both Giraldin and Vogel are good friends of these gentlemen, and there was only one vote to be cast between them. One partner decided for Mr. Vogel and the other for Mr. Giraldin, and the result was that a coln was flipped to decide the issue. The partners, however, did not let any one into the secret of which candidate came "heads."

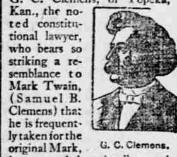

Theodore Hemmelmann left the City Hall long enough to come down and vote with his old cronies. And about the same moment Mr. Hemmelmann entered the exchange members spied Odeon Guitar, Jr., and Henry Cornet together. Immediately the chorus started: "Here comes the orchestra; now we will have some music."

M. R. Collins, Jr., who ran a close race against Malcolm Macbeth for the presidency several years ago, was a wheel horse on the floor, and took particular delight in offering gratulieus sympathy to the candidates whose chances seemed slim. His former opponent, Mr. Macbeth, was working hard for Pdward Wyman, and succeeded in innding the latter on the directory.

REPUBLICAN RANKS,

Machine Men and Administration Supporters Are at Cross Purposes.

Harmony, which seemed so near to the machine men of the East Side Republican party at their meeting in Belleville Manday night, is further out of sight than it has ever been. The reason, according to one of the anti-machine men, ites in the fact that the machine men wanted to grab that the machine men wanted to grab every piece of positical "pie" in sight, and as pe is bedly wanted by both sales just now, there was a disruption. Charles Becker, chairman of the St. Chair County Republican Committee told the machine politicians that if they did not get together with the State administration supporters at once their chances for electing any part of the county taket were very slim. It is generally conceeded that the Democrats will have the biggest wantover in the history of the county. It will be a rebuke to the present heads of the Republican machine and their methods, although St. Chair County is recognized as a Democratic stronghold.

Professor Charles Hertel, Superintendent Professor Charles Hertel, Superintendent

Protessor Charles Hertel, Superintendent of Schools of St. Clair County, wants to be rominated for State Superintendent of Schools, and some of his friends want him to become a candidate for Congress.

One of the tricks which is being loudly complained or by the anti-machine crowd is in the announcement of the primary elections, which it is proposed to hold in East St. Louis for the selection of delegates to attend the City Convention. The anti-machine men say it will be an easy thing for the machine to pack these primaries, as the majority of the anti-machine men are employed all day and cannot employ men to watch their interests at the polis.

John Beaird, who has been nominated and defeated three times for Sheriff, said yesterday that he had finally made up his mind to fight to the last. Monday he was given to understand that he would be laid away on the shelf in favor of some favored pet of the machine and that he would be called on during campaign time when his pet of the machine and that he would be called on during campaign time when his money and his efforts were needed. When he received this bit of information he decided that he could get a great deal more out of the machine and would be more respected if he fought the machine to the last.
